

Max Nguyen

Professor Depew

Drawing I

4 May 2025

My definition with my own drawings submitted reflects about my lifestyle.

I don't do activities a lot outside as much other than exercises, but I found my comfort with drawing to be the most of what I rely on to practice more with my future works and creativity. If

I had to pick among the submitted drawings to be a favorite, I would have to say the fourth image where it depicts the value scale. I believe it to be the relevant to contemporary art practice, because it is an important element to have while making a piece using the values of coloring.

Shadowing, lighting, texture, and many other elements that can bunch together while it is being made.

Furthermore, it reminds me about my days I have done an assignment like this in high school, and it really reminded me a lot about how important it is to understand the value ranges from darkest to lightest. Overall, I had a wonderful experience within this class, and I want to leave out a thank you for having me here where I can practice once more.

