A part of art is creativity, and our imaginations are our own and can go run to anywhere. Our creativity consists of unique perspectives that we should maintain. Imagination and the Still Life process can be placed in works where you use your imagination to create an original image you have thought of versus being able to set up objects like a commercial model. It could also be setting up a still life model, and having to use your imagination to plan out proportions, techniques, details such as highlight placement and even designing the basic form. Whichever scenario, working from still life has oneself to place details throughout the process. It is that you get to place the details you have never noticed after you keep on looking at it every few seconds as you go. While, a piece from the imagination enables the creativity of detail placement and how you may perceive if the work of imagination was a real life scenery.

Drawing, an art form that requires a canvas plus a medium tool to create or form an imagery whether realistic or beyond imagination, simple or complex, 2D or 3D. This art form follows a process of playing out what emotions you want to evoke through the art, what you want allows yourself or others to perceive, tell a story and so on.

Art is the word that crosses my mind daily and the more time and space given, I could tell you more than a plethora of thoughts and emotions that crosses it. As well as, experience that I often think about. Art is a world where people of historic times to our modern day, created an image and go beyond to make life and society function as stories/ narrative get to be told to teach lessons and be the voice that not many can be vocal about. It is a world for let creativity be allowed whether as a youth or older . It consists of , drawing , the very known form , dancing , functional object making such as furniture , musical works and more . It is a world where time and space is filled to allow oneself to put themselves into the world and be seen as it our purpose to put ourselves in the world and society in whoever way we want to. It is the world where the process gives us time and space to pay attention to details that we can cherish or maintain our vision of the real world .

In modern life and culture , drawing is just as important as other works that people work hard on . Drawing gives us time and space during a hectic life , in a stressful , dark world to maintain our true selves without rules that limit joys of the process . It is an art form just get a certain thought , emotion , or perspective out as it is not mean to be perfect and of course the fact that therapy costs much . Sometimes you just have to draw something . Because lives are so cookie cutter routine , we may forget what parts of the real world looks like , with drawing you can be given to time and space to capture the details and perspectives of how the real world maintains and changes . This goes from what flowers look like , to how the sun is so bright you start to get that serotonin that you have needed . It allows children to start creating a world and perspectives to help them grow as an adult as they can obtain memory skills , perspective awareness , and more . Drawing is also a way of getting businesses to thrive as drawing is the basic form of posters , logo design and so on which has u captured to even want to urge to take some interest in whatever is being promoted . Drawing is important as it is used in forensic science to draw criminals . It maintains originality .Drawing is also the form whether pencil and paper or on a computer , people who have been oppressed for their heritage or cultural identity can express their voice , especially nowadays with more loud movements and social justice desires . Those who have passed can receive justice by the allowance to see their drawings and those who are close to passing can leave the world knowing their voices need to be heard and that the world is going to get better . Drawing maintains culture that has passed down as every technique and detail is unique to each culture as it has its own history . Think of how victims of Vietnam be or leave this world , knowing they can be open and share the wrongdoings of their colonizers through drawings . Imagine the overwhelmingly warm feeling Korean and Filipino comfort women could get when we share drawings of their stories ( reported by Lee Min Sun ) to emphasize how wrong their colonizers were and express the intense suffering they experiences and having to be silenced . They would get to leave the world knowing that the world sees wrongs of history and strive to be better than before . Art is a world where we use our imagery of the world and resources from the world to give something back that represents the world and what it can do .
